United Way of Central New Mexico Announces Staff Changes

Albuquerque, NM – United Way of Central New Mexico has made changes that align the organization to future goals. Jennifer Mastripolito will execute the duties of Vice President of Community Impact, while Randy Woodcock, Vice President, has also been named Chief Development Officer.

Mastripolito will be responsible for all of community impact work, internal programs, public policy, rural counties and the UWCNM Ambassadors Program. Woodcock is now responsible for workplace campaigns, major giving and Affinity Groups.

Additionally, Pat Wilkins will assume the role of Chief Operating Officer while continuing to serve as CFO.

Heba Atwa-Kramer is now the Director of Community Impact and Annie Sanchez is the Director of the Center for Nonprofit Excellence.

"These staff members bring incredible experience and passion to their new roles," said UWCNM President and CEO Ed Rivera. "We are excited for them to contribute to the organization in new ways."

United Way of Central New Mexico, founded in 1934, serves a four-county region. UWCNM's mission is to bring people and resources together to measurably improve lives and strengthen our communities. To learn more, visit www.uwcnm.org or call 505-247-3671.
